• this is a fantasy ...

This is a fantasy.

Once upon a time there was a little girl who loved the out of doors. Most of all, she loved to be out doors when spring came each year. In the winter she enjoyed ice skating and bob sledding, but spring was her favorite season.

Of course, this little girl had a very wise mother who insisted that she go to school each day, spring or no spring. The little girl was allowed to go out doors after school, but at night she had to stay in and study.

In due time the little girl became a grown up girl and went away to college. Having been taught that she must study to get along, the grown up girl made fine grades during the fall and winter term. She was proud of her good grades and even neglected the pleasures of ice skating and bob sledding in the winter.

And then spring came. The grown up girl, who had made such good grades, simply couldn't resist the tennis courts, the quarry, and the call of the "open road". Because her mother was not there to tell her she must go to school every day and study every night, the grown up girl began cutting classes and forgetting text books in the evening.

The grades she had been so proud of dropped consistently, and when June 21 came, the grown up girl realized that she had failed miserably that semester and she was no longer proud of herself.

This is a fantasy.

• help these war projects ...

The World Student Service Fund drive failed by only reaching half the goal which was set in the beginning. That was because of the failure of student and faculty to cooperate in this measure.

Two other projects are now under way on campus. The Alpha Phi fraternity is sponsoring a Greek War Relief drive. The group asks that everyone contribute all the old clothing available to help our fighting allies in Greece.

Residents of the Women's Building are sponsoring a Chinese War Relief project. Both of these organizations are devoting time and expense to further their worth while projects.

It is a challenge to the student body, administration, and faculty members to help make these war drives successful. Since we failed so miserably on WSSF, why not do our utmost to help Greek and Chinese relief?

• let's do our best ...

These last few weeks of school will be crowded with social activities, final club meetings, classes, and—exams.

Let's do the best we can to end up the school year with a loud resounding bang!

Get Man, Then Plan. College Coeds Say

With the majority of marriage-able males in the armed services, Westminster college coeds believe in "getting their men first" before doing any wistful planning like beginning the traditional hope chest of linens, china and silver.

In a survey made among 350 coeds it was found that only about a dozen girls own the old fashioned cedar chest filled with luxuries for their future homes.

Linens are the most plentiful item in the few chests on campus. Dinner cloths, napkins, towels, sheets and pillow cases are most common, but one coed has tucked away in cedar six Russian linen guest towels of pre-war days.

Just like mother and grandmother before her, Westminster's "hopeful" has included blankets, comforts and quilts. Some of the quilts were stitched by the coed herself during those lonely hours after the "draft" began to take effect.

As her gift for the future, one coed has a complete set of china for eight. Silverware is a popular item even for those girls who admit they do have a few things tucked away in a drawer "in case". The girls insist that the latter can't classify as hope-chests.

Egg beaters, rolling pins, carving knives, and pots and pans make up the practical divisions of these chests.

"D" Day Is Nearing. Exams Come Soon

"D" Day is nearing—your "D" Day.

Yes, final exams are right around the corner. This year they will be different than ever before.

In past years, finals were given during a special "exam week" when no classes were held. This year, because of the shortened term, examinations may be given "during any regular class meeting that the professor desires," according to the rules set up by the University's executive committee.

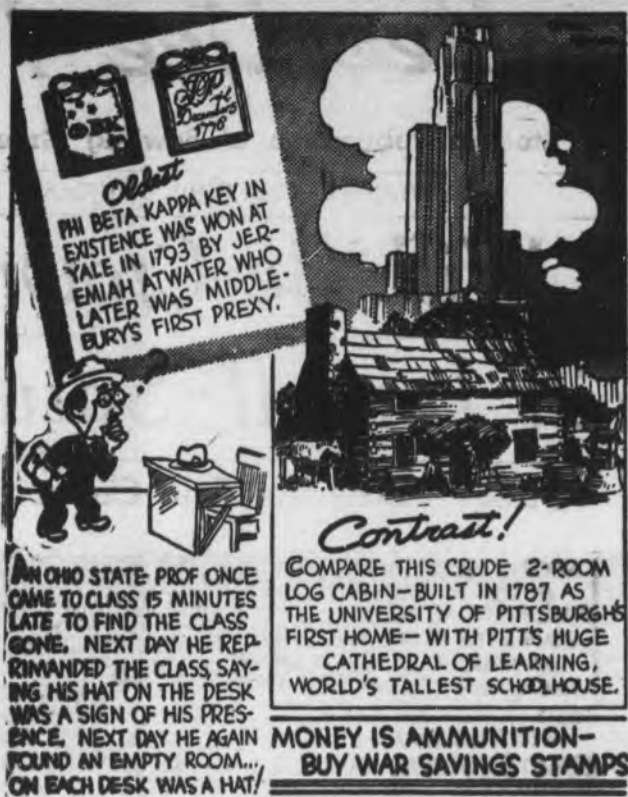

Final grades must be filed by the professors with the registrar by 4 p.m., June 30, the day before commencement. Grades will probably be mailed to those who leave self-addressed stamped envelopes for them.

In order to eliminate the cutting of classes during the later part of the term, all those who do not attend the last scheduled class period in each course will be given an incomplete in that course. These should be made up as soon as possible, Dean Ralph G. Harshman, acting registrar said.

Special Maneuvers Clean Up Campus

On "special maneuvers" Tuesday evening, University women cleaned the campus. Organized into house groups, they cleared papers and weeds from the grounds.

The project was sponsored by the WSGA which served punch to the workers.

goodnight, sweet prince

By GENE FOWLER

REVIEWED BY BETTY ROSENCRANS

John Barrymore was the most famous member of the theater's Royal Family. His biography, written by a close friend, is a tumultuous history of a great actor. Characteristic of Barrymore, it is a mixture of comedy and tragedy.

The great Barrymore had declined within the recent years so that this generation making clowning appearances on the radio, insignificant movies, and the stage play, "My Dear Children".

After reading his biography, we realize the great actor as he was in his zenith and as the theater audience of yesterday remembers him.

Mr. Fowler writes in an intimate manner about his friend. We come to know Barrymore as a person who delighted in the comical and appreciated the beautiful. Many anecdotes serve to present this vivid picture of him. We, with Mr. Fowler, meet John Barrymore in 1918 and go with him through his first stage work, his stage triumphs, his movie career, his radio work, and continue with him until the time of his death.

Barrymore's greatest triumph was "Hamlet". The press and public acclaimed him as the "first Hamlet of our generation." One critic said, "One forgot Barrymore's beauty and grace, his wit and eloquence. The unseen and unheard was being communicated."

Mr. Fowler once asked Lionel Barrymore if John was on the level when he said that Hamlet was the easiest role he ever played.

"Of course he was," replied Lionel sardonically. "You must take into account that when the Bard wrote 'Hamlet' he had John in mind."

And it is from "Hamlet" that the biographer takes his title. In the final act after the death of Hamlet, his friend Horatio says, "Good-night, sweet prince, and flights of angels sing thee to thy rest."

And in tribute to his friend, Gene Fowler writes—Good Night, Sweet Prince.

Minute Is Consumed By Tooth Brushes

CHICAGO—(ACP)—The average person consumes a little more than a minute in brushing his teeth, Dr. H. B. G. Robinson of the University of Washington dental school found in studying the methods of 405 individuals.

He told the International Association of Dental Research that although Americans finally have mastered the approved rotary or up-and-down methods of tooth brushing, they pay too little attention to less accessible tooth surfaces.

Cindermen Win Over Wesleyan For Third Straight Victory

The Falcon cindermen raced over the Bishops from Ohio Wesleyan 103 to 24 on the local field last Wednesday for Bowling Green's third straight victory. The Bee Gee's took 14 out of 15 firsts losing only the two mile run.

Two records were broken in the meet. Pvt. Dave Robinson hurled the discus 132 feet shattering the old record of 128 feet 1/4 inch set by Stollar of Western Michigan in the first meet of the season.

The other record that was broken was in the 880 yard relay when the Falcon quartet of Ralph Klein, Pvt. Roscoe Rorabaugh, A/S Terry Carey, A/S Bill Lytle, clipped one-tenth of a second off the old record of one minute, 32 and one-tenth seconds set by Baldwin Wallace in 1941. The new record is one minute and 32 seconds.

In the 440 yard dash a Bishop tried to pass McNelly of the Falcons on the inside rail and was knocked off the track. McNelly was promptly disqualified by the judges. The decision was more of a gesture of sportsmanship because according to track rules, "no man shall pass another man on the inside rail".

The results of the meet are as follows:

880 yard relay won by BG (Klein, Rorabaugh, Carey, Lytle). Time: 1:32

1 mile run by Forrest (BG), Igler (BG) 2, Constine (OW) 3. Time: 4:56.6

Navy Man Is Sports Ace

Second Class Petty Officer Valentine Diodis attached to the Ship's Company here at the University, is an ace in two sports. He is a capable basketball referee and golf professional. His golfing career has found him matched against such men as Lawson Little, Dick Metz, Ralph Guldahl, Dutch Harrison and Ky Lafoon.

As a youngster Petty Officer Diodis caddied for 13 years, and during this time won his first golf tournament at the early age of 14. He played ten years as a professional before joining the armed forces. Petty Officer Diodis said one of his biggest games was the $10,000 open golf tourney in Youngstown, during the summer of 1942, where he was tied with Little, Guldahl and other nationally known players at the end of the first 36 holes with 141. He finished 32 in the tournament of the 200 persons taking part.

While at Ohio State University, he won two trophies in golf, but quit college after the first year to become a professional. Earlier he had won the Portage County amateur tournament three consecutive years. As an amateur he won nine trophies.

In the way of basketball, he has 10 years to his credit as a referee in high school and college games in Ohio. Starting with 14 games the first year, he steadily increased the number each year and in 1942 was referee at 121 basketball games. In all, he estimates he has refereed over 1000 games.

Before entering the service he was City recreational director in Kent and Ravenna for six years.

Petty Officer Diodis served in the United States Army for six months before he joined the Navy. During this time he was a member of the Officer's Candidate Class at Fort Eustis, Va., but took his discharge in order that he might enlist in Gene Tunney's Physical Training program in the Navy. He took his "boot" training at Great Lakes and attended Petty Officer School in Bainbridge, Maryland.

Stationed here since March, Petty Officer Diodis is Duty Officer at Kohl Hall and is in charge of the intramural staff.

Seen at baseball practice . . .

Paul Landis, Director of Health and Physical of Ohio. Mr. Landis was Director of Athletics and coached football, basketball and track here before securing his present State position. He and baseball coach, Warren E. Steller, planned the present athletic fields and buildings. As he looked over the baseball diamond and nearby athletic fields Mr. Landis commented, "These fields certainly have improved in the last two years. Just a few years ago they were cow pastures."

Congratulations track team! . . .

This column extends its congratulations to the track team for its excellent showing thus far this season. Although many of the fellows have come from different schools all over the country, they have devoted their talented spirit to a well balanced team of fighting Falcons. Keep on winning! !

Team Mates . . .

Dale Alderson, who is pitching for the Chicago Cubs and Pvt. Roger Brown, Falcon utility player, were team mates on the Upper Iowa University football, basketball and baseball teams when they were students there.

Catcher to groundkeeper to catcher . . .

New top soil was put on the baseball diamond last week and seen raking with Mr. Kraw, Mr. Sauder and Coach Steller was Falcon catcher Johnny Jeremiah. I wonder how many players would help prepare their own diamond before playing on it.

Puff! Puff! Puff!

Uttered Will "Tiger" Zaudkte, Falcon third baseman and Jim "Mine" Bloomfield as they trailed Jim "Shoat" Woods in a 100 yard grudge dash. For many weeks a controversy had arisen between Woods and Zaudkte as to who was the better slow dash runner. Last week Woods challenged Zaudkte and Bloomfield, to be run after baseball practice with full baseball uniform including shoes. Woods steamed across the finish line first followed by Bloomfield and Zaudkte.

Former Spring Athletes Find Place On University Faculty

Athletes of colleges and universities, trample the cinders as they speed over them, the baseball diamond is cut up by spiked shoes, the tennis court is pounded by soft rubber soles as the player races back and forth retrieving the ball.

Every year a young candidate with competitive spirit gives all he has for his Alma Mater. But what happens to these athletes when they finish college? Some turn professional, others go into the fields of business and law and still others go to other colleges and universities as professors.

Among the faculty here at Bowling Green are former athletes. 'Tis said that in the spring it is difficult for Dr. E. E. Dickerman of the biology department to keep his eyes away from the track across the street from the Science Building during teaching hours.

This is explained by the fact that while attending Grand Island College in Nebraska, Dr. Dickerman starred on the track team. He received his letter by winning the one and two mile events and running on the mile relay teams.

At the age of 15, Dr. Samuel M. Mayfield of the geography and geology department, organized and played on a small town baseball team. While at Berea College in Kentucky he was a four year letterman on the track team. In his junior year he won the state conference championship by winning both the mile and the half mile events.

Dr. Mayfield also was active in intramurals as he won cross country intramural runs.

Almost every day Dr. Wayne N. Thompson of the speech department is seen on tennis court playing his favorite game. He also has played on softball, baseball and basketball teams.

Dr. Thompson has played in many tournaments and continues to play in 15 to 20 a year. In one tournament he played against Robert Jake, a past national boys' champion.

Dr. Thompson not only plays tennis, but is an official umpire. He is a member of the United States Lawn Tennis Umpires Association. He served as an official for the 1941 National Finals Double Tournament, umpiring for Don McNeal, 1940 champion and Bobby Riggs, 1941 champion.

This position as umpire has given him the chance to see all the outstanding players in action such as Fred Perry, Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, Dick Parker, Bobby Riggs, and Don McNeal.

Denison Plays Here Saturday As Games Are Rescheduled

Rain and a team not in condition to play cancelled baseball games with the Army at Camp Perry and the Navy at the Toledo Naval Station last week.

The game at Camp Perry was postponed on May 16 because of wet grounds then on May 18 because of rain. The game was then scheduled for May 22.

The Toledo Naval Station was to have opened its season here last Friday against the Falcons playing them in a return game at Toledo Tuesday, May 23. Word was received from Toledo that their team as yet was not in playing condition. These two games were cancelled and will be played at a later date.

This Saturday the Big Reds from Denison University will play a doubleheader with Falcons on the local diamond here. Game time will be at 1:30.

Reported to be one of the best teams in the state Denison has been helped greatly this year by their assistant coach Chief Specialist Albert J. Thomas. Chief Thomas is a former minor league pitcher having pitched for many teams in the St. Louis Cardinal organization. He pitched for the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association before enlisting in the Navy.

The schedule for the remainder of the season is as follows:

May 27—Denison (two games)

May 29—Toledo Naval Station, there

June 3—Ohio Wesleyan (two games, there

June 12—Toledo Naval Station

June 17—Denison (two games), there

Intramurals

The V-12 softball program has started with two leagues in operation.

The American League composed of the four Marine platoons and the Ship's Company, was rained out in its opening date; however, the National League has played played two rounds of their tourney. The National League is composed of the six Navy platoons.

The division of teams in this manner is calculated to bring an even number of Marine and Navy teams to the final elimination tourney. The final tourney will find the top team in the National League playing the second place team in the American League, and the first place team in the American League meeting the second place outfit in the National League for the right to play in the championship game.

Each team must furnish an umpire and scorer for their games, and failing to do so will have to accept the decisions of the opposing team's official as final.

Little is known of the strength of the teams in the American League due to the inactivity but in the National League Co. 4-Pl. 1 looks like the team to beat as they have won two straight games.

The American League games are played on Tuesday and the National League games on Thursday. The starting time for both leagues is 5 p.m.

The intramural staff invites all students to come out and back their favorite teams or individual players.

Dr. Shuck Gives Last Review In WSGA Book Tea Series

By GEORGIANNA KAULL

At the third of the W.S.G.A. book review teas Sunday, May 21, Dr. Emerson Shuck of the English department, reviewed W. Somerset Maugham's latest book "The Razor's Edge".

"In order to understand 'The Razor's Edge,' stated Dr. Shuck, 'one should first read 'The Summing Up,' which Maugham wrote in 1938. In this book, Maugham sums up his thinking hence it forms the basis of 'The Razor's Edge,' and helps us to discover what Maugham is trying to do. 'The Razor's Edge' appeared after the plans of Maugham's thinking have been blue-printed."

Although Maugham is English, and almost as much French as he is English, all the characters in 'The Razor's Edge' are American. "Why has Maugham chosen American characters for his book?" asked Dr. Shuck. "I think it is because he has wanted to avoid the typical English mind which is in most of his stories in order to benefit by picturing American energy, vigor, and newness, and because there is in American tradition, stemming from Puritanism, a sort of moral earnestness not present in English tradition."

The story centers around Larry Darrell when he returns from the first World War completely upset in mind about the world and what it means to him. He seeks to answer the three questions: Is there a God? Why does evil exist? Is the soul immortal? He breaks his engagement with Isabel, a self-centered, selfish woman, and goes to Europe to find his answers. There he reads, works in a Belgian coal mine where he meets Kosti who introduces him to mysticism, and goes into a monastery to acquaint himself with the Roman Catholic philosophy. Finally he goes to India where he embraces the Brahmin philosophy because he feels that it comes the closest to what he is seeking. The rest of the story interest comes about when Isabel, who was married in America, comes to Europe, meets Larry, and realizes that she still loves him. Larry, however, decides to marry Sophie MacDonald, a woman who has completely disintegrated morally and spiritually as a result of the death of her husband and son. He feels he can save her by doing so. Jealous, Isabel gets Sophie drunk and she wanders away; she is found later in the river with her throat cut.

With the failure of his plans to marry Sophie, Larry gives away what money he has and returns to America, there to become a cab driver. He feels that in this way he will be able to come in contact with a great many people and do them what good he can do.

Other characters in the book are Elliot Templeton, an American who has made a success of himself in Europe as a cosmopolitan. He has dedicated his whole life to personal pleasure and social success. Suzanne Rouvier is a French model who finally achieves the security she has wanted more than anything else in life.

"Maugham's method of writing this story is interesting," continued Dr. Shuck. "He has put himself in the story as a narrator—the characters talk to him, and he replies. The drama of the story comes in what the characters think and how they act. With this method, he is able to hold together a group of people who are entirely different. He has taken his characters only in terms of brief, crucial moments in their lives, instead of following them over a period of time."

"Maugham is continuing to be an observer of life and trying to answer the fundamental questions," concluded Dr. Shuck.

This will be the last in this semester's series of W.S.G.A. book review teas.

Women's Building Will Give Tea

On June 4 from 8 until 5 p.m. the Woman's Building will sponsor a Chinese tea for the benefit of the Chinese relief.
